A Reflection on the Year...

Lenoir-Rhyne College has such an array of style and opinion that it's hard to cover everyone under one theme. So this year, we're taking a different approach. We don't have a specific theme, we don't need one. Together we optimize what Lenoir-Rhyne is all about. It's a collaboration of people, faces, feelings, and actions which bring us all together. Today we make the memories for tomorrow, so have fun doing whatever you do. Realize the impact that you have on others. Try something different - say "hi" to someone you don't normally associate with. Lessen the gap between the class of 2001 and 2004 because we're all in this together. Live in the now because now is what counts. Make a difference today and watch its impact on tomorrow.

Dedicated to Ms. Becky Sharpe

Becky Sharpe's roots at Lenoir-Rhyne go as far back as the creation of the college in 1891. Her great grandfather, Dr. R.A. Yoder, was the first President and co-founder of the college. She was born in Cabarrus county, and raised in this area by her parents, Rev. William Hall and Mary Beth Hall. After graduating from East Rowan High School, she attended Lenoir-Rhyne College where she was active on campus and a member of the A Capella Choir. She received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Education and after graduating from Lenoir-Rhyne, she went on to Appalachian State University and received her Master's Degree in Guidance Counseling. Prior to her present position as the Administrative Associate for Dean Anita Johnson Gwin and Student Affairs, she was a Resident Director in Morgan Hall, Conrad Hall, and Price Village. Becky Sharpe's involvement and dedication to L-R is a valuable asset to the entire Lenoir-Rhyne community.

Her dedication to Lenoir-Rhyne has had many different faces...Resident Director, Administrative Associate, and Student...

"Mrs. Sharpe has been an inspiration as she motivated me to fulfill RA duties my first year at Lenoir-Rhyne. Since then she has been that smiling face that everyone needs to make their day brighter, that supplier of candy when we all have low blood sugar, and that confidant that I can share my dreams and aspirations, as well as my failures, hardships, and short-comings, someone that hears our concerns but does not choose sides, I could go on and on..."

- Tim Rush, Senior

"Becky Hall Sharpe is one of my most valued employees. Becky's talents range from a beautiful singing voice and excellent cook to a supportive, loyal and sensitive personality. Becky views Lenoir-Rhyne not just as a job, but as her home. She cares for students as though they are her children and sees the Student Affairs staff members as a part of her family. Lenoir-Rhyne College is embedded in Becky."

-Anita Johnson Gwin , Vice President for Student Affairs and Dean of Students

"Mrs. Sharpe is always willing to help me and I love to hear all of her critter stories. Even though I don't like cats, I've learned to love hers! Thank you for supplying me with a daily dose of candy. Sometimes I feel like I have my very own Willy Wonka Factory here on campus. You're the greatest!"

- Sarah Jane Milheim, Junior

Events of Lenoir-Rhyne

Every year, Lenoir-Rhyne sponsors many events for both the students and the community in Hickory. Whether it be on stage, behind the scenes, at a dance or in the stands, Lenoir-Rhyne students always seem to find the energy to devote themselves entirely to making L-R a diverse and active part of the community. This year, Homecoming offered a tasteful look at the Festivals of the World, Playmakers entertained audiences with "Dracula," and we had several exciting and interesting writers on campus as part of Lenoir-Rhyne's "Visiting Writers Series." We said good-bye to our Seniors who graduated and welcomed in a new class of freshmen during Prologue. In addition to our classroom studies, we had many visitors to campus invited by Campus Activities Board to entertain us and to educate us. On the lite side were Comedians, a hypnotist, and a kissing expert. While some speakers brought serious issues to the table including a former skinhead now in the fight to end prejudice.

An exciting part of this year has been the ground-breaking for two new buildings, the Living and Learning Center and the McCrorie Center. Both buildings will offer students new opportunities to expand their horizons and grow academically in their studies. The Living and Learning Center will be a place where Juniors and Seniors will be housed and will also have classrooms and learning facilities. The McCrorie Center will offer a new state-of-the-art allied health facility for Sports Medicine, Athletic Training, L-R athletics, Nursing, Occupational Therapy, and Student Health Services.

All of these events shaped our year here at Lenoir-Rhyne and offered us many ways to meet new people, learn new things, and add to our ultimate college experience.

Commencement 2000

Lenoir-Rhyne held its 108th Commencement exercise in Shuford Memorial Gym on May 13. The Rev. James Foltz Mauney, Bishop of the Virginia Synod of the ELCA; the Rev. Dr. Jane Pope Mitcham, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Statesville and contract staff, Office of the Bishop, North Carolina Lutheran Synod; Tony Allen Pope, president and CEO of the Catawba Transportation Group, Claremont; Dr. Ki-Hyun (Kenny), President, and Sun Shin (Sunny) Chun, Vice President, of Chunggroup of Charlotte all received honorary degrees from Lenoir-Rhyne College. Mauney and Mitcham received honorary Doctor of Divinity degrees. Pope received a Doctor of Humane Letters, and the Chuns received a Doctor of Laws. The guest speaker was Daniel Johnson of Hickory, who received the Navy and Marine Corps Medal for Heroism and the Kiwanis International Medal of Valor for his service in the United States Navy after graduating from UNC-Chapel Hill. We said farewell to 226 of our students and wished them the very best as they begin a new life, bringing with them all that they have learned here at Lenoir-Rhyne College.

Prologue 2000

Prologue 2000 kicked off on Friday, August 18th under the direction of the new Director of Student Activities and Orientation, Sarah Hotchkiss, and Coordinators Brandy Wellmon, Gretchen Ferris, and Josh Lovell. The new freshmen participated in group activities both on and off campus, including service projects throughout the community. A few of the places freshmen went included: the Moravian Church Daycare, Hickory and Conover YMCA, Hickory Soup Kitchen, Lutherhaus, FACED Center, Red Cross of Hickory, and the Walden House. On campus, the freshmen attended a seminar on date rape entitled "He Said - She Said," the Beach Party and Cookout on the practice field, dessert at their faculty advisor's home, and the Night Out on Hickory, where groups enjoyed time out in the town. Most groups went bowling or to the Crawdads game.

Breaking New Ground

In the past year, Lenoir-Rhyne has celebrated the ground-breaking of two new buildings set to open within the next few years. The Living and Learning Center will house juniors and seniors and the facility will have a first-floor apartment available for a faculty-in-residence and space for that professor to hold small classes and seminars. The McCrorie Center for Allied Health will be home to the health-related departments: nursing, occupational therapy, and sports medicine and will also house the Athletic department. Approximately one-third of the college's students are majoring in the allied health sciences, including pre-med. The building's shared resources will allow those students to train in a collaborative, multifaceted environment representative of the health-care settings they will work in upon graduation.

C.A.B. Events

Throughout the year, Lenoir-Rhyne's Campus Activities Board (C.A.B.) invites many visitors to campus to speak or perform. C.A.B. sponsors different comedians and performers, such as Chuck Milligan, hypnotist who dazzled crowds once again with his captivating performance and comedians Craig Carmean, Buzz Sutherland, and Steve Matuszak, who entertained crowds with their hilarious stand-up acts. Guest Lecturer William Cane, an expert on kissing, entertained students with his talk on "The Art of Kissing" which was covered by news media in Charlotte and surrounding areas. Another guest lecturer, Frank Meeink, who is a former skinhead, spoke about his fight to end prejudice. All of the excellent Homecoming activities were sponsored by C.A.B. including free bowling, movie night, the street fair, and the dance. They also sponsored a night of laser tag in the Intramural Gym where students could play laser tag all night for free. Whether it was a serious lecturer or an entertaining comic, Lenoir-Rhyne has offered students a variety of events throughout the year to add more than just classes to the ultimate college experience.

Homecoming 2000

This year, Homecoming at Lenoir-Rhyne celebrated the festivals of the world. In this week long celebration, sponsored by Campus Activities Board, students enjoyed free bowling, movie night, and challenging each other with Spirit Links. The week ended with a street fair with many different activities, including listening to a live remote broadcast by Charlotte's Kiss 95.1 FM, a sky diving simulator, games, great Bojangles food, and Sumo wrestling. Friday night, the Homecoming Dance was held in Cromer Center for everyone to get together and see the Homecoming King be crowned. This years winner was Senior Josh Lovell. All of these activities were a part of a successful week of fun activities building up to the parade and the big game on Saturday against the Mars Hill Lions at Moretz Stadium. Alumni came back for the game and reunited to talk with old classmates and visit the campus. Before the game, our A Capella Choir sang the Star Spangled Banner while our Sign Troupe interpreted the song. It was a great way for all of the L-R students to see their fellow classmates perform. During halftime, the Homecoming Queen was crowned and all of the nominees were escorted onto the field. Senior Cynthia Kennett was nominated Homecoming Queen and was crowned. Homecoming 2000 was a great success for everyone and will be a great memory to keep when we leave Lenoir-Rhyne.

The Lions Lament by Pastor Andrew Weisner

Here's a song about a lion who came from Mars Hill, he didn't know when he came that he'd nearly get killed.

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

He pranced down the mountain singin' "Clickety-clack," but he'd-a been smarted if he'd turned back.

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

When he came down the mountain, the lion didn't know he was goin' meet a bear named "the Mighty Joe."

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

Lots of other Bears, they came for the game, to see them Lions get put to shame,

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

When it came time for the Coin Toss, Joe told the Lion, "You've already lost!"

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

So the Bear and the Lion, they took to the field, Joe grabbed him where it hurts and it made him squeal,

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

Every time those Lions tried a touch down play, Joe would grab the ball and take it away,

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

They romped and they ran in the mid-day sun, folks could see that Lion wasn't having any fun,

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

Joe knocked that Lion down on the grass, and when he tried to get up, Joe kicked his -- paw,

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

Joe told the Lion, as he said with a grin, "If you try to get up, I'm gonna kick it again."

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

So the Lions went back to the Hill called Mars, lickin' their wounds and tendin' their scars,

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

So here ends the song, 'cause we all know, no Lion can beat a Bear named Joe,

Singin' hi, diddl-i, diddl-i-fi, diddl-i-diddl-i day.

Mr. L-R

Students visit West Point

Three students, Sarah-Jane Milheim, Anne Monroe, and Kathleen Winter and one faculty, Dr. Robert Winter traveled to West Point, NY in January to work with West Point Cadets. This trip was for the Art Therapy students and was the first time ever that the Military Academy has done a project in conjunction with another school. Students visited two hospitals, Keller Army Hospital on the base and Rockland Children's Psychiatric Hospital off-base. The students worked alongside the West Point cadets to paint canvases and ceiling tiles with the patients that will be hung up to decorate the hospital. This project was done through the Foundation for Hospital Art and was a very successful project.

Election Central

This year's election proved to be one of the tightest races in our history. Even local elections were sometimes too close to call. On election night, the Department of Political Science and Economics hosted Election Central. A time when students, faculty, and guests could gather in Cromer Center to hear speakers, and then later watch 4 televisions set up to monitor the election as results came in. It looked like a typical election at first, but as exit polls began to show, this would be a very close race. Throughout the night students, staff, and faculty gathered around the televisions and discussed politics, the candidates, and talked about the outcome of the closely watched election. The event was hosted by Dr. Lowell Ashman, a political science professor and chairperson of the Political Science and Economics department. At the beginning of the night, speakers were introduced and gave their thoughts and impressions about the candidates and the issues. Senior political science major Gabi Macon spoke about the electoral process and the history behind past elections. Dr. Joe Mancoske, a political science professor, spoke about his different theories on how the election would turn out. Junior political science major Alexander Howell talked about his thoughts on the election and how it would turn out. The fourth speaker, William Mauney, economics professor, spoke about the candidates' different economic plans and what they meant for the American people. Dr. Ashman also gave results of several surveys done by his Social Science Methods class which surveyed Lenoir-Rhyne students as well as Catawba County residents about their choice for President and opinions on various topics brought up during this election campaign. The election watch continued until 1:45 a.m. when the last students finally packed up and went to bed. It proved to be a wonderful success and a great way for students to gather for this historical event and the only election of their college career.

Conroy's Visit Causes Controversy at Lenoir-Rhyne

by Colleen Anderson and Doug Blackburn

Pat Conroy's visit to Lenoir-Rhyne College as part of the continuing Visiting Writers Series on September 21, 2000, was a long awaited event. English classes and GEN110 groups read his books and studied his life. The night he spoke, he began speaking about his experiences and reading from his various writings of his. He has spent his life speaking out against prejudice and writing about race relations, but at a point during his lecture he read from his book, The Prince of Tides, about how his mother "was so poor she was almost black." It is a line that has been read by thousands of readers and probably not given a second thought but that night at Lenoir-Rhyne, it prompted tense discussions of racial issues that ended in demanded apologies and planned protests by the students. Dozens of students and several members of the administration walked out of the lecture after being offended by Conroy's remarks while others stayed and listened to the rest of his lecture. After it was all said and done, there was a mix of feelings and emotions left for both the college and the surrounding community to sort out. Questions went unanswered by many, "Is he really racist?" "What exactly did he mean by that comment?" Conroy's visit was covered by local papers and the Associated Press and it got very mixed reviews from journalists and the public. Some thought that Conroy owed Lenoir-Rhyne an apology, others argued that it was the students of Lenoir-Rhyne that owed Conroy the apology. Think hard about what you can do to improve race relations in your community. You can make the difference today.

What did you think of Pat Conroy's Visit?

"Conroy's visit was informative because he proved that the prejudice mentality still exists in the 21st century. Although America has come a long way in attempting to erase prejudice, we still have a long way to go."

-Tia Morris

"Pat Conroy's visit provided us with the impetus to start an active dialogue about the role of diversity on the L-R campus. It is very gratifying to see how our College community has turned what started in such a negative way into an opportunity for growth and development."

-Dr. Wayne Powell

"Conroy's comment was offensive and therefore deserved a sincere apology. I think that it was a learning experience for us all, and has made us grow to be more open and aware of racism."

-Rachel Lukas

"It was definitely a learning experience, an event that the whole L-R community can take something from."

-Paris Edwards

Collegiate Challenge

Collegiate Challenge is an activity done by college groups of Habitat for Humanity. Over spring break 2000, Lenoir Rhyne's Habitat group traveled to Andrews, South Carolina, just outside of Charleston, to help build a house for a family to move into. It takes approximately six weeks to build a Habitat house, the L-R group was one of six groups to work on the house for a week. They put the roof on the house, installed insulation, and "hurricane proofed" the house. They worked all day, Monday through Friday to complete their projects for the house. Twelve students from Lenoir-Rhyne went on the trip with Dr. John Bisbee and his wife, Carol. Along with the hard work they did building the house, the group also visited Charleston and the beach. All of the students on the trip had a great time, and accomplished their goals that they had set for building the house.

This shows through during every meet, game, match, and tournament. This past year has been a time of hard work, victory, record setting, and championships. Congratulations to all of the Lenoir-Rhyne student athletes who work to excel in the sports arena as well as in the classroom and in the community.

Athletic Training

Many people never see beyond the athletes when talking about college sports, but one of the most important aspects of athletics anywhere is the people who keep the athletes in a healthy condition to compete. The athletic trainers are vital to any sport in order to assist injured players during recovery and keep the healthy players active. Lenoir-Rhyne has an excellent Sports Medicine/Athletic Training program with faculty who are certified Athletic Trainers and work with students in the classroom and oversee field work for the students. It is a valued program at Lenoir-Rhyne and without them it would be impossible to have such healthy athletics programs and successful seasons!

Athletes excel in competition

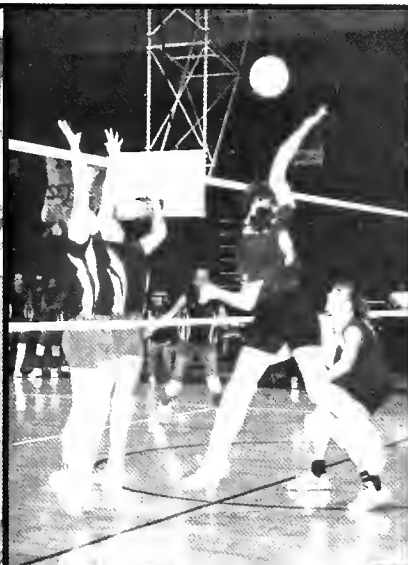

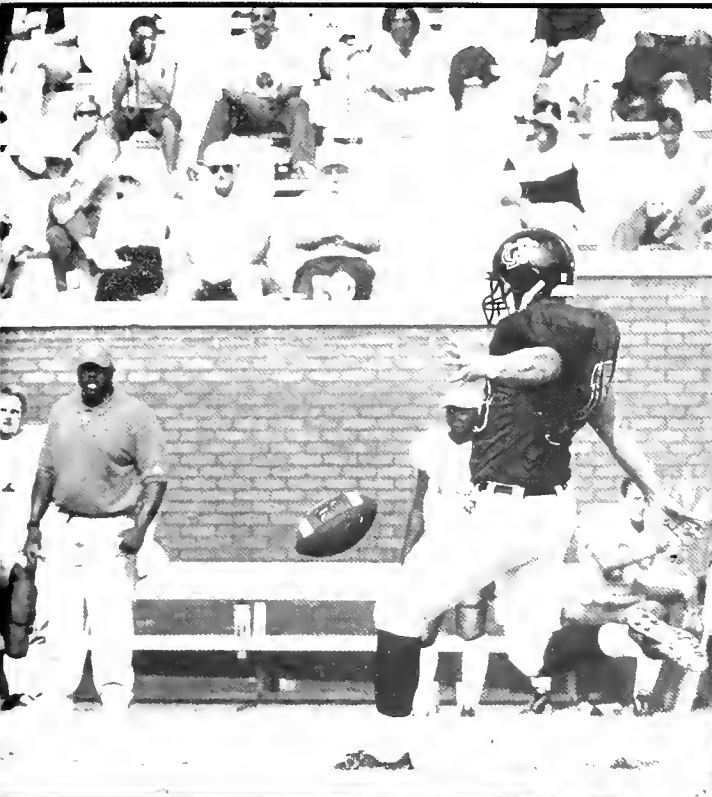

Lenoir-Rhyne athletics has experienced a great year of competition

Football player John Milem was drafted into the National Football league to play for the San Fransico 49ers in the 5th round of the NFL Draft. Milem started as defensive end in the 49ers opening game against the New England Patriots.

Greeks of Lenoir-Rhyne

Lenoir-Rhyne College is home to eight Greek organizations; Sigma Kappa, Kappa Delta, Delta Zeta, Zeta Tau Alpha, Pi Kappa Phi, Theta Chi, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Theta Xi. Lenoir-Rhyne also has two councils, Interfraternity Senate and Panhellenic Council that combine members of each fraternity and sorority respectively and work together to set guidelines and standards for Greek life on campus. Along with those groups are also Rho Chis who are sorority members that become Recruitment Counselors during the spring semester Recruitment. Each organization participates in philanthropic activities and social activities, both on and off campus. Greek awards are given annually to individuals, fraternities, and sororities that best exemplify the goals of their organization and have shown leadership on the L-R campus and in the community. The greek organizations at Lenoir-Rhyne participate in programs such as Adopt-A-Highway, Locks of Love, Alzheimers research, WalkAmerica, March of Dimes, PUSH America, North Carolina School for the Deaf, Susan G. Koman Breast Cancer Foundation, child abuse prevention, and Girl Scouts of America. All eight organizations on campus strive to reach into the community of Hickory and beyond to make a difference in the lives of the people that they work with.

Panhellenic Council

The Panhellenic Council seeks to maintain a high standard of sorority life and intersorority relations and compiles rules governing rush, pledging, and initiation practices of the Greek organizations on campus. There are two representatives from each sorority on the Council.

Interfraternity Senate

The IFS is the governing body of the four fraternities on campus, Theta Chi, Theta Xi, Pi Kappa Phi, and Tau Kappa Epsilon. The Senate was established for the purpose of building understanding and fellowship among the different fraternities of L-R. The IFS also hears evidence on infractions of rules made by members.

Rho Chi

Rho Chi's are sorority members who give up their sorority for the majority of the year and serve as Recruitment counselors to potential members going through formal recruitment in the spring. They are there to offer advise and guidance to the women going through recruitment at that time.

Academics of Lenoir-Rhyne

The excellent reputation of Lenoir-Rhyne is based greatly on its faculty and style of teaching that makes graduates of L-R so sought after. The diverse liberal arts education and the vast resources make Lenoir-Rhyne stand out above everyone else. Seventy-two percent of our faculty have Ph.D's and our student to faculty ratio is 11:1. Lenoir-Rhyne offers sixty majors in the liberal arts, sciences, and pre-professional programs. Almost 1,500 students are currently enrolled at Lenoir-Rhyne, each of whom brings a diverse and important view to the L-R experience.

Lenoir-Rhyne is an excellent resource of knowledge and learning outside of the classroom as well. We offer various special programs such as the Honors Program, Study Abroad, Internships, Semesters in Washington, D.C., the Broyhill Institute for Business Leadership, Center for Theology, the Lineberger Center and English as a Second Language, Hearing impaired Student Support Services, and Advising and Academic Service Center. Many different academic honors societies are present on campus such as Phi Beta Lambda and Kappa Delta Pi. There are many different programs at Lenoir-Rhyne that help students broaden their horizon academically and add to their classroom experience.

President Ryan LaHurd

"Our culture loves speed and seduces us to be and do faster. A ten-second wait to connect to an internet site halfway around the globe seems excessively long. What a great respite a yearbook offers us! It permits us the leisure to review a year: to recall what we have learned, seen, and experienced; to relive our precious interactions with friends; to measure our growth and development; to regret things lost and left undone. The HACAWA also reminds us that we are a part of something much bigger than ourselves which stretches back 110 years and connects thousands who share with us the privilege of being a part of Lenoir-Rhyne College."

-President LaHurd

A Brief Bio...

Dr. Ryan LaHurd came to Lenoir-Rhyne in 1994 as the college's 10th president. Prior to that appointment, he was associate professor of English and chair of the department at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. from 1977 to 1985 and assistant professor of English and Chair of the Department at Allentown College, in Center Valley, 1973-77. He has also completed post-doctoral study at Rennselaer Polytechnic Institute and the Institute for Educational Management at Harvard University.

He has been a frequent speaker and writer on issues related to politics, history and culture of the Middle East and has received three Fulbright Fellowships, including one in Yemen and one in Syria. He is a Rotarian and is a member of the Board of Division for Higher Education and Schools for the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. Lenoir-Rhyne says farewell...

"Years ago when I first heard that Clarence Pugh was coming back to Lenoir-Rhyne to work, one of my first thoughts was to wonder how in the world the college had been so lucky to lure him back from another promising career in the business world. Now, as he prepares to retire, I can think almost the same thing, but in another tense - how lucky the college has been to have had Clarence Pugh here during all these past years. Clarence's sincere love for this institution and its people has been obvious in his loyalty and dedication over the years, as he has been one of the most outstanding "friend raisers" this college has ever known. After all the hard work he certainly deserves to retire, but we will look forward to his continued involvement here at LRC."

-J.C. Epting

"To the thousands of alumni, parents, friends, church and business leaders, faculty, staff, and students who have witnessed Clarence Pugh's dedicated service and commitment to Lenoir-Rhyne College through the years, he is the ultimate Joe Bear."

*-Eric Childers '95
Director of Marketing*

Clarence Pugh is a Lenoir-Rhyne treasure. When I entered as a freshman he was the president of the student body. When I returned as chaplain he was the director of alumni affairs. He has served Lenoir-Rhyne faithfully and sincerely since he entered in 1958, either as a student, an alumnus, or as a member of the staff. No other person during the second half of the twentieth century has had the personality, the energy, the zeal, and the dedication to meet the public on behalf of the college. Clarence Pugh is absolutely unique. He is genuine and genuinely enthusiastic about Lenoir-Rhyne. People in the Hickory community, men and women of the alumni, and people of the North Carolina Synod Lutherans love him and trust him. Countless instances of good will and generosity toward the college have come directly on account of his sincere good efforts. He is, in that sense, irreplaceable.

Department Chair,
Department of Religion and Philosophy*

Fulbright Scholar on Campus

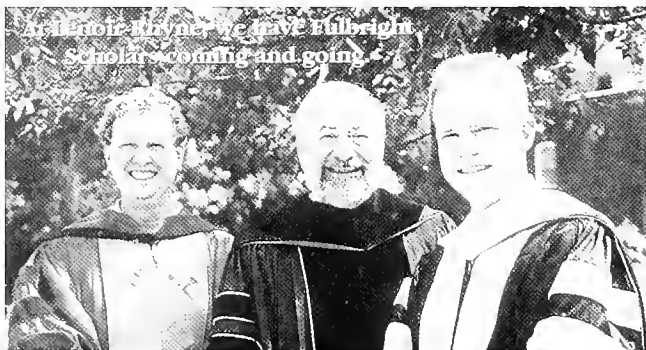

This fall, Lenoir-Rhyne hosted one of six European Fulbright Scholars in the United States. Dr. Igor Casu, a professor of History, was named Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence for the fall semester. From the Republic of Moldova, Dr. Casu is on the faculty of Moldova State University and has worked with the UNESCO chair of South East European Studies. He has lectured extensively on contemporary world history and has taught a master-course entitled "The Balkans in the Twentieth Century," which the college offered to students through the history department. He also presented a series of independent foreign films for the community.

Education program ranks high statewide

The teacher education program here at Lenoir-Rhyne received excellent rankings in a report done by the 1999-2000 N.C. Public Schools' Institutions of Higher Education. L-R's program quality score of 125 places it near the exemplary level that begins at 135 and is an improvement over the 115 the college earned in April 2000. L-R's excellent score was higher than those of Wake Forest University, Davidson College, NC State University, Elon College, Gardner-Webb University, Belmont Abbey College, Salem College and others in the state.

Occupational Therapy students score high on exam

95% of OT graduates in May 2000 passed the National Board for Certification in Occupational Therapy. The average score of the class was 11 points higher than the average of all who took the exam. Also, 100% of OT graduates who sought jobs after graduation found them.

L-R is home to 3 Fulbright Scholars, President Ryan LaHurd, Dr. Rand Brandes, and Dr. John Cheek. Dr. Cheek will be teaching 2 courses on 20th Century American Music at Yerevan State Conservatory (Armenia) this year from March until August.

Dr. Karen Dill, professor of Psychology, recently published an article about the effects of video game violence. She recently had interviews with Time Magazine, USA Today, the London Observer, CBS, ABC, and BBC. She recently represented Lenoir-Rhyne and the American Psychological Association when she presented her research to Congress. Congratulations to Dr. Dill for all of her success!

Business students win national awards

This past summer at the 49th Annual Leadership Conference in Long Beach, CA, L-R representatives won national awards in two competitive categories. Matt Davis, Kenneth Padgett and Diana Parker debated their way to a third-place finish in the Emerging Business Issues category. Davis also took sixth place in the Web-site Design category. In addition to the student awards, L-R business professor Sarah Wallace was recognized as National Local Chapter Adviser of the Year. And Dr. Robert Simmons, chairman of the L-R Business Department, received the Outstanding Adviser Services award for 35 years of service as a local Phi Beta Lambda chapter adviser. L-R's Zeta Alpha Omicron chapter is recognized as one of the top Phi Beta Lambda chapters in the nation for its American Enterprise, Community Service, and Partnership with Business projects. The chapter has garnered awards in state and national competitions for 24 years.

Biology Students Receive Honors

All six senior biology majors participating in the Biology Honors Program at L-R won awards for their research papers at the N.C. Collegiate Academy of Science (NCAS) meeting held at N.C. State University. L-R students won four of eight first place awards, and two won third place awards. The awards went to: Steven Peeler, winner of the Derieux 1st Place Award in Biochemistry and Physiology; Jerry Aldridge, winner of the Derieux 1st Place Award in Biotechnology; Yuliya Annas, winner of the Derieux 1st Place Award in Health Sciences; Carrie Elzie, winner of the Derieux 1st Place Award in Zoology I. Ashley Collins, winner of the Derieux 3rd Place Award in Health Sciences; Elizabeth Hardman, winner of the Derieux 3rd Place Award in Ecology. Congratulations to all 6 of these L-R 2000 graduates on their success!

L-R Students Study Abroad

Study abroad is a life-changing experience that is possible for every student attending Lenoir-Rhyne College. Adapting to a foreign culture first hand allows students to develop an entirely new perspective about themselves and the world around them. Expanding horizons with a semester or year abroad demonstrates a sense of adventure, curiosity, and flexibility on the student's part, enhances communication and inter-personal skills, lends distinction to resumes, and attracts the attention of potential employers, regardless of the student's major. Lenoir-Rhyne offers 10 principle options of study in other countries, but can also arrange for a student to study abroad at the educational institution and country of their choice. The principle options are: Summer sessions in Ecuador, Central College in the students choice of Austria, Great Britain, France, Mexico, the Netherlands, or Spain, Beaver College in the students choice of United Kingdom, Australia, Austria, Ireland, Greece or Mexico, Institute of American Universities in France, Millersville University at Marburg University in Germany, University of Evansville's Harlaxton College program, Bretton-Hall College, University of Leeds in England, Moscow University in Russia, Wake Forest University/SASASAAS. Not all of the study abroad experience is learned in the classroom, much of the experiences most remembered by students who have studied abroad learn about the countries' culture and gain personal knowledge about themselves and the world around them.

Special Thanks...

...to my family and friends for their guidance and support throughout the year.

...to Amber, for showing me the ropes last year.

...to Becky Sharpe, Dean Anita, Jeremy Fisher, Michael MacEachern, and all other staff members who helped with information for this year's book.

...to Katie, Melissa, Doug, and Bryan for your help this year.

...to the advisors, Jim Lichtenstein and Julia Allen for their support.

It's been a busy and hectic, yet awesome year working on the HACAWA. I could have never gotten through any of it without the help and support of my family and friends. Mom and Dad, who both put up with me constantly whining and wanting advice. Katie and Melissa, who always had to listen to my last minute ideas whenever they popped into my head, even if it was 1 a.m. Mariah, even though you're in Boston, you always seemed to be here when I needed to talk through the latest yearbook crisis. Bill, you've been such a great support this whole year with everything and anything that I've needed, whether it was moral support or help late at night putting together layouts. Thanks to everyone who has helped in every different way this year in putting this book together. I hope you enjoy it as much as I enjoyed editing it. ~Colleen~

Meet A Bear

The 2001 HACAWA is happy to present to you twenty-two members of your student body with bios and information about them. They offer a brief glimpse of the diversity and uniqueness that makes Lenoir-Rhyne so appealing. They are from different states, different family backgrounds, and different faith backgrounds, but they all add something different to make the L-R community special.
